Specific Regulations：

1. Students of diplomacy major should complete 51 required credits, 28 general education credits, 4 physical education credits, and 45 elective credits. Credits that exceed 51 required ones will be recognized as electives. The department recognizes credits acquired through double major, minors, and credits programs as electives.
2. Students should take the required courses and required elective courses offered by the Department of Diplomacy. A student should obtain approval in advance if the student has special reasons to take the required courses from other departments. Such courses should bear the same name with the required courses in our department, and the credit hours should be the same or above. Once approved, the course in question will be recognized as the required course of the Department of Diplomacy. The department will only approve the credits that are listed on our required courses list. If the out-of-department course is a two-semester course and our required course only has one semester, the student should complete the course for two semesters. The department will only count the first semester as required credits. The credits of the second semester will be recognized as electives.
3. With the exception of Regional Studies (required elective course), the department will not offer the required courses to non-Diplomacy major students. This restriction does not apply to students with double major and/or minor of the Department of Diplomacy.
4. Defense education and military training elective credits and physical education elective credits do not count toward the major in Department of Diplomacy.
5. According to the "NCCU Admission Guidelines for International Students", international students are required to pass the Test of Chinese as a Foreign Language (TOCFL) at Level 2 before graduation. If students fail to acquire the certificate at the required level, they will have to take and pass four semesters of NCCU Mandarin Special Course (one course per semester) at their own expense before graduation.
